Issue: What if confusion is the succes-criteria of workshops, seminars etc?

What was done? keep it short and simple

Some different points about confusion:
Confusion has a negative connotation,uncomfortable, not knowing, not interested, not happy,
And confusion is neccessary to learning, working at 10-year-birthday-parties, con-fusion meaning "with fusion" etc.

Could we learn to feel comfortable with confusion?
by training in having faith in universe, by wisdom, by experience, personal growth, by knowing the reason of confusion,

Dilemma: Clients want learning and involvement, but no confusion and we know that they can't have it without -

Do anybody confuse somebody else - or uncovering a confusion who was already there? Are the facilitator supposed to be confused as well? Would it be possible to sell confusion?

Conveners reflection: The group did not end with the beautiful feeling of having done something - having solved the problem - but we did reach the succes-criteria: Confusion! But I do not feel very "succesfully" - interesting...

Convened by (first and last name): Lise Damkjaer

Other participants (first and last name):
Agnetha Setterwall, Mayla Khalek, Jutta Weimar, marian Milatz and an bunch more beautiful people...
